

City Council Reviews SHL Plans; Hears New Beltway Plaza Plans

by James Giese

The Greenbelt City Council sat down with its planning staff to firm up its comments and conditions for the approval of the Springhill Lake conceptual site plan on Thursday, June 23. This plan proposes tearing down all existing buildings in the area except for the office buildings and replacing them with new housing double in density. New educational facilities will also be part of the plan. Members of the Advisory Planning Board attended the meeting.

Whether or not to support such a massive change in the design of Sprnghill Lake was never raised as an issue but council preliminarily took exception to a number of details of the plan. Council also received a first presentation of a concept plan for improvements and changes to the Beltway Plaza shopping center that would result, if implemented, in the property’s becoming a mix of commercial and residential uses, providing an attractive and inviting facade facing the new Springhill Lake community.

Before getting down to business, Planning and Community Development Director Celia Craze introduced Ethan Binbernagel as the city’s newest full-time community planner. Binbernagel had been working for the department as an intern.

Craze also announced a division of the staff’s workload that has come about in response to the major development proposals now being reviewed. Craze will be lead planner for Greenbelt Station. Assistant Director Terry Hruby will take the lead for Springhill Lake and Binbernagel will monitor the Beltway Plaza.

Beltway Plaza

When Marc “Kap” Kapistan, general counsel for Quantum Management, the owner/manager of the large mall, had earlier raised concerns that all the commercial facilities proposed for Greenbelt Station and the new Springhill Lake would harm Beltway Plaza, the Greenbelt City Council challenged the Plaza’s property owners to modernize and upgrade their facility to meet the competition. Thus when the concept plan for Springhill Lake proposed closing a part of Breezewood Drive, the street that separates the apartment community from the shopping center, and putting the backs of proposed townhouses toward the Beltway Plaza, Kapistan was challenged to re-do the north side of the center making it attractive to look at and inviting to the Springhill Lake community.

At the June 23 meeting, Kapistan responded with a concept plan prepared by Gutschick, Little and Weber, P.A. (GLW) of Burtonsville, Md.

Kapistan remarked upon presenting the plan that at one time he and his fellow owners wondered if they shouldn’t put barbed wire between the shopping center and Springhill Lake. With AIMCO assuming ownership of the 2,898 unit apartment complex, the situation has improved. The concept plan he presented had been reviewed first with AIMCO.

Concept Plan

While the latest AIMCO plan to rebuild Springhill Lake would have closed a part of Breezewood Drive and placed townhouses there backing to the shopping center, GLW’s plan would make Breezewood Drive a tree-lined avenue with townhomes facing south and new apartments and some new retail establishments on the mall property facing north toward the street. The south end of Springhill Lane, also proposed to be closed, would be kept open in GLW’s plan. City staff also supports keeping these streets open.

A wide tree-lined boulevard entranceway opposite Cherrywood Terrace in Springhill Lake would lead directly to a mall entrance. On the east side would be

by Thomas X. White and Mary Moien

At its June 20 meeting, council dealt with the issue of Prince George’s County regulations requiring Detailed Site Plans (DSP) for additions or new construction for properties in the Residential Planned Community (RPC) Zone, and fee increases for parking tickets and trash collection.

The RPC issue broke into the news following the Greenbelt Homes, Inc. (GHI) Annual Meeting in May when it was discovered that the RPC ordinance enacted in 1989 contained language requiring that additions to housing units in the RPC Zone be subject to a detailed site plan review, in cases where the area of the addition would be at least 25 percent of the floor area of the original unit. Although the ordinance had not ever been enforced, GHI learned that the technical staff of the Maryland-National Capital Park and Planning Commission would begin enforcement for new additions. GHI requested County Councilmember Douglas J.J. Peters to support an amendment to the ordinance that would exempt GHI from the RPC provisions.

The issue was discussed at length at the city council meeting of June 6 and at the city council/GHI stakeholder work-session of June 13 and placed on the agenda for this meeting for further discussion and action. Celia Craze, director of planning and community development, provided council with the background on the issue. She reiterated that since the DSP requirement applies to all properties in the RPC Zone city staff believes that the legislative remedy must be extended to all residential and public property in the zone. Accordingly, she recommended alternative language that would remove the DSP requirements for additions to, or alterations of, single-family residential units in the RPC Zone, as well as all public buildings, while retaining it for apartments, commercial properties and new construction.

Also, a new purpose section is recommended that clearly states the intent of the RPC Zone is to protect the city plan. The statement would provide context for the interpretation of the requirements of the RPC overlay zone within Greenbelt. The staff recommended that the city council support the proposed alternative language and transmit it to Peters with a request that the city’s proposed legislation be substituted for the original corrective legislation submitted by GHI. Councilmember Rodney Roberts made a motion that council approve the staff recommendation. During discussion, Mayor Judith Davis explained that she had serious concerns with the

by Shamla K. Shakir

The city of Greenbelt celebrates another year of pride in its American heritage with the annual Independence Day Celebration on Monday, July 4 at Buddy Attick Park, located by Greenbelt Lake at 555 Crescent Road. The events will include live music, children’s activities, a sculpture display and other free activities throughout the afternoon and evening, all leading up to the very popular fireworks display at dusk. The day’s activities, sponsored by the Greenbelt Recreation Department, are open free of charge to the public.

Fireworks

Fireworks will begin at dusk, or approximately 9:15 p.m. The city spent $8,500 on a package of fireworks from Fireworks Productions, Inc. of Maryland Line that will last for approximately 30 minutes, said Kenneth Hall, director of the Greenbelt Public Works Department. Hall and Greenbelt Public Works Street Supervisor Gene Diest will work with a state board-certified crew of approximately 12 men who will light the fireworks from across the lake. In order for the city to obtain the fireworks permit, the State Fire Marshal’s Office requires the city to publicize that it will be holding a fireworks display on Monday, July 4.

Parking

Parking at the lake is restricted to persons with disabilities and/or the elderly; however, a tag is not required. People planning to park in the median on Kenilworth Avenue should make sure their cars are completely off the roadway.

Detours may be in effect for up to 45 minutes after the conclusion of the fireworks. At that time vehicles will not be able to turn onto Crescent Road from Kenilworth Avenue, in order to clear pedestrians from the viewing area. Traffic entering the city from the outer loop of the Beltway onto Kenilworth will

by Joe Timer, Outstanding Citizen Award Committee

The search has begun! Who will receive the 2005 Outstanding Citizen award?

This award is bestowed annually during the opening ceremonies of the Labor Day Festival. While a committee will select 2005’s Outstanding Citizen, that selection is made from nominations submitted from the community. Nominations are due on August 8. Readers can help the committee identify this year’s outstanding citizen by completing the nomination form elsewhere in this paper.

All of us have had the opportunity to be associated with individuals from Greenbelt who have distinguished themselves for their outstanding volunteer service to our community. Rarely do they receive the recognition they deserve. Review the list of the 32 award recipients at right. Whose name should be inserted as the 33rd recipient of the Outstanding Citizen award?

The process of identifying that special person in a city of citizen volunteers is difficult and requires input from citizens like you! Some outstanding citizens are easily spotted because of their creative leadership and their high visibility within their organizations. Outstanding Citizens can also be individuals who touch others in a quiet way.

History indicates that many of Greenbelt’s Outstanding Citizens have been nominated several times before their selection. The committee encourages nominators to be persistent. Since the

Letters to the Editor

Outstanding Citizen?

Reading the News Review this week, it struck me that the first two letters were about Steve Gaughan saying what a great neighbor he was as well as someone who would donate his time freely. The third letter was from Bob Zugby soliciting nominations for the Greenbelt Citizen of the Year.

From all of the accolades that I have read, Gaughan seems to be just the type of person that the Greenbelt Outstanding Citizen Award would honor. Had he lived out his life, he might very well have been nominated.

My choice would be to give this award to Steve posthumously. While he did not serve on the Greenbelt police force, he was a Greenbelt citizen who died protecting the lives of Prince George’s County citizens.

Summer in Greenbelt

As the roses bloom and the heavy heat settles in, I thought of the joys of summer in Greenbelt. Beginning with the Greenbelt Day celebration and ending with the fabulous Labor Day Festival, summer is special here. GHI’s annual Home and Garden Tour was wonderful, as always and special thanks to all the homeowners who shared their homes with us. The pool is a cool, wet antidote to the heat after work, the lake is an oasis of shade and the GAC play, “Over the River and Through the Woods” was well-acted and a highlight of our week. We laughed over having to decide between a first-run movie and a great local performance on a Saturday night – both in walking distance.

These joys don’t just happen, of course. I’m grateful to all the people who work in the foreground and background of the New Deal Café with its great food and art and music, GHI staff and volunteers, the News Review, the Co-op, Old Greenbelt Theatre, the city staff and council, the Community Center, the school system, the Labor Day Committee, Greenbelt Arts Center, the local police and firefighters and all the other vibrant organizations and local businesses in Greenbelt.

Echoing the Refrain – Greenbelt Is Great

It is hard to know how to identify all those who have my gratitude for their help, kindness and concern during my recent health scare.

Of course it has to start with the wonderful response of the EMTs who quickly answered my call for help and treated me with great care and efficiency. I was deeply touched when I saw the two who’d given the most direct assistance in the ambulances had stayed long at the hospital to be sure I was truly stabilized before they left the Emergency Room. And I’m grateful, too, for top-notch care, kindly given at both Doctors Community and Washington Adventist hospitals.

For neighbors who have fed me, run errands and cared for my two kitties when I couldn’t. For the cards, beautiful flowers and for practical gifts that made my life easier. For a bathtub grab bar, a beautifully cleaned car and grandson care – you know who you are. For prayers, calls and concerns of my church family at Holy Cross. For friends who arrived to visit at the exact moment I was released and delivered me safe to my door after a stop for essential medicine at our Co-op Pharmacy which had to pinch-hit to supply until new stocks were received.

And for everyone at our News Review family, who pitched in during a week we were already short with another key player out (our editor, who’d had eye surgery) – some who worked many extra hours with unfamiliar tasks and others, with daytime jobs, who worked long into the night to finish the paper to see that it would still arrive at everyone’s doorstep Friday. For the GHI workers who made a special effort to finish my scheduled door and trim painting quickly and well with no burden at all on me.

And for everyone whose help made my illness easier – I felt enfolded in community. Thank you one and all!

Museum to Survey Community Wants

The Greenbelt Museum wants to know what kinds of programs and services the residents of Greenbelt want from their local museum. In order to gather input from the community the museum has issued a survey in the city’s summer recreation brochure. The Friends of the Greenbelt Museum (FOGM) is offering one year’s membership as a thank you gift for people who fill out the survey.

The survey was created as part of a strategic planning project for the museum. The museum received a grant from the Maryland Association of History Museums to hire a strategic planning consultant to update and rewrite the museum’s strategic plan. The museum is retaining Leni Preston of Preston and Associates for the project. Preston believes that the museum’s planning process should work as a response to the community’s needs and expectations for the organization. Preston has worked on strategic planning and mission statements with museums and nonprofit organizations throughout the eastern United States.

The survey questions are designed to measure awareness of the museum and its programs. The survey also gauges satisfaction with the museum’s programs such as the exhibits in the Community Center, the historic house at 10-B Crescent Road and the bi-monthly lecture series.

Results from the surveys will directly influence FOGM’s decisions in planning the museum’s priorities for the coming years.

FOGM membership benefits include free admission to the historic house, discounts on certain gift shop items and invitations to members-only events. Surveys will be accepted until July 31.

Children’s Concert Festival of the Song

WAMMIE nominees Rick and Audrey return to Greenbelt for a free children’s concert in Roosevelt Center from 10:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday, July 16, to start the day-long Festival of the Song, an outdoor celebration of original music by area songwriters.

Rick and Audrey received Washington Area Music Awards nominations in 2003 for best duo/group in Contemporary Folk and Children’s Music. Rick was nominated for his work in record design.

On Screen

Lure of the “Ladies”

Now at Old Greenbelt Theatre, “Ladies in Lavender” is a quietly alluring film set in a remote stretch of the Cornwall coast in the late 1930s. The redoubtable Judi Dench and Maggie Smith, as sisters of a certain age living alone, take in an injured young Polish man washed up on their rocky beach. Writer-director Charles Dance then mixes in a staunch housekeeper, peckish doctor, vivacious vacationer from afar and local fisherfolk-farmers for an uplifting tale that gives the heart its due while avoiding rank sentimentality. Along with the dramatic landscape, music plays a key role, even as shadows of the outside world lengthen.

It’s agreeable to see how important “the wireless” was in this pre-TV age, though the viewer is liable to leave with a few questions, e.g. how did young Andrea (Daniel Bruhl) get thrown into the sea in the first place. Subtitles for snatches of dialogue in German, Polish and French. 110 minutes.

Sucher Art Exhibit, Reception at Café

The Friends of the New Deal Café Arts (FONDCA) is sponsoring an artist’s reception for Anne Sucher’s July exhibit entitled “Frames of Mind,” a display of artistically framed mirrors.

The exhibit will be shown at the New Deal Café through July 31. The reception will be held on Sunday, July 3 from 7 to 9 p.m. also at the New Deal.

Anne Sucher, a second-generation Greenbelter, says she “created these frames in a flaming flurry of framing fetishism and fertile fantasy back in 1997.” They have been gathering dust in various closets, attics and basements ever since and have now been lovingly restored and are available for public viewing during July.

Each frame is unique, a combination of clay, wax, bits of glass, beads and other found objects used to create texture. Many have themes. After objects are embedded or imprinted, the clay or wax is allowed to dry, and then some or all of the piece is painted. The mirrors (or pictures) are added later.

Many of the frames are for sale and commissioned pieces are possible. For more information contact aesucher@yahoo.com or 301-345-1097.

Art shows at The New Deal Café are sponsored by FONDCA with supporting grants from the Prince George’s Arts Council.

Dems for America Kickoff Meeting

by Suzanne St. Cyr

The Prince George’s Democracy for America Group will have a kickoff meeting on Wednesday, July 6 to begin mobilizing for the upcoming 2006 elections. Democracy for America is a grassroots organization of progressive Democrats and Independents that began in support of Howard Dean’s candidacy for President. With Howard Dean as head of the DNC, the Democracy for America movement will play a vital role in Maryland politics in 2006. The Prince George’s Democracy for America group will actively support that effort.

Prince George’s County is arguably one of the most important counties in the Maryland elections. How well the county is organized and mobilized is key to ensuring that we keep our U.S. Senate seat, reclaim the governor’s mansion, and maintain a veto-proof majority in Annapolis. The PG-DFA group will focus on learning what county voters care about and helping these voters gain a voice in how this country is run. PG-DFA will also help to support similar outreach efforts by other Democratic groups throughout Maryland. During monthly meetings members will learn about current and upcoming political issues, initiatives and activities in the MD-DC-VA region.

The kickoff meeting will be held the Greenbelt Community Center, Room 201 on the second floor, at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, July 6. Anyone who believes that the current extreme right wing agenda is a threat to our future and is looking for a way to fight back is invited to attend. There is no charge to attend the meeting, however, voluntary contributions of $3 to cover rental costs for the Community Center would be greatly appreciated.

Corine Feldman

Corine Bay Feldman died on June 21, 2005. She was 53 days old. Her death was due to complications of prematurity due to a high risk pregnancy. The official cause was pulmonary hypertension but in simple terms her heart was just too big for this world. In her short time she touched many lives all over this small world.

She will forever be loved and missed by her parents Susan Belisle and Dean Feldman, her sister Carly and brother Jake, her grandparents Andy and Peggy Belisle, Uncle Ed, the Sonneveld family, Aunt Lisa Gillispie and family plus many others.

A memorial service will be held at Paint Branch Unitarian Universalism Church in Adelphi on Sunday, July 10 at 3 p.m.

In lieu of flowers donations may be made to the nonprofit organization preeclampsia.org.

Summer's a BLAST For School Kids

BLAST, a new four-week biomedical program offered by Prince George's County Public Schools focusing on science and mathematics, is being offered beginning on Tuesday, July 5.

This Biomedical Learning and Summer Training (BLAST) will prepare in-coming freshmen who have been accepted into the biomedical FOCUS program at the new Bladensburg High School in the fall. While students accepted into the FOCUS program are not required to enroll in the free summer program, they are encouraged to participate.

The BLAST program is one of many summer programs offered by the schools to support children beyond the regular school year. Other summer programs include an Extended School Year program for special needs students, Head Start for 3- and 4-year-olds, the Howard B. Owens Science Center enrichment program, support for English Language Learners, K-1 and middle school enrichment programs and secondary summer school.

Registration is open for all summer programs. Contact Peggy Kay at 301-952-6044 or via email at pkay@pgcps.org to apply for the biomedical program. Parents must provide meals and transportation for BLAST students. More information on other summer programs is available online at <http://www.pgpcs.org/~summer/>.

"We encourage parents to make sure their children participate in ESY opportunities over the summer as recommended by the Multidisciplinary Team during the annual review process."

ESY services will begin on Tuesday, July 5 and continue through Thursday, July 28. For information contact Gloria Hobbs-McCullough by calling 301-925-2811 or via email at gloria.hobbs@pgcps.org.

Our Neighbors

Our sympathy to Susan Belisle and Dean Feldman and family on the death of their infant daughter Corine.

Condolences to Oliver and Patricia Cone of Ridge Road on the death of their son Peter.

Greenbelters were shocked and saddened when their friend and neighbor Corporal Steven Gaughan was killed in the line of duty. Our sympathy to his wife Donna and family.

Navy Seaman Mary E. Clark, daughter of Jackie Wamaling of Annapolis and Jamie Wamaling of Greenbelt, made a port visit to Hong Kong, China, during a scheduled deployment while assigned to the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz, homeported in San Diego. During the visit Clark's unit volunteered to help restore the Bayanihan Center. The center helps overseas domestic helpers with employment. USS Nimitz is the flagship for Commander, Carrier Strike Group 11 and is deployed in the Western Pacific in support of the global war on terrorism.

Friends of the Mikesells were glad for a glimpse and very brief visit from Leonard, accompanied by sons Wayne and Keith, who were all enroute to and from Rubye's family reunion in Charlottesville. They flew into BWI on Thursday and returned to Idaho on Monday, with short stops both ways to visit neighbors in 49 Court Ridge.

What is Islam?

In today's busy world, have our personal interests overtaken our moral virtues or will we still stand for the truth? Justice is one of the greatest virtues in Islam.

"O you who believe, stand out firmly for justice, as witnesses to God, even as against yourselves, or your parents, or your kin, and whether it be against rich or poor: for God is a better protector (to both) than you. So follow not the lusts (of your hearts), lest you avoid justice; and if you distort your witness or refuse to give it, verily God is well acquainted with all that you do."
-The Holy Quran 4:135

K-9 Assists Police In Catching Suspect

On Friday, June 17 the Prince George's County Police Department requested the assistance of a Greenbelt Police K-9 and handler in locating and apprehending two persons who had fired shots at a county police officer during a traffic stop in Brandywine. Cpl. Robert Musterman and K-9 Cigo responded. After a lengthy track through a rural area Cigo located one of the suspects attempting to hide in the brush. The suspect, a Hyattsville man, was apprehended and taken into custody by county police.

Returning Police Officer Sworn In

Robert Dowling, III, was sworn in to the Greenbelt Police Department by Mayor Judith Davis during the June 20 Greenbelt City Council meeting. Dowling had been with the force from 1988 to 2001. Having obtained his law degree, however, he resigned from the force and has worked as a lawyer since 2001.

Captain Thomas Kemp welcomed Dowling back, stating that Dowling is well known and respected throughout the community.

Council Holds Workshop For Public on SHL Plans

by Mary Moien

On June 15 the city held a public workshop at the Greenbelt Community Center to give the public a chance to view and comment on plans for the proposed redevelopment of the Springhill Lake community. It was not planned to be a formal meeting; there was no presentation. Rather, those attending had an opportunity to view close-up the plans that are in the very first stages of review. Few were there other than city staff, city councilmembers and committee members. Attendees were encouraged to write down comments to be given to the city council.

For those who were there, the plans did not seem easy to read. They were not drawn in the geographic layout that locals were used to viewing. The streets, Metro and the Beltway were all hard to locate.

At one easel a visitor finally turned the board 90 degrees so that he was looking up Cherrywood Lane with the Beltway and Metro at the top of the chart. But then all of the written documentation was out of kilter. (Later, when City Manager Michael McLaughlin came in, he walked up to a different easel. Within 15 seconds of viewing, he grasped the plans and turned them sideways also.)

Traffic Concerns

An attendee from Westchester Park was very concerned about the traffic and parking plans. He commented that it seemed that Springhill Lake had parking problems now; what would be expected when density was increased? Garages were mentioned but he was not convinced as the number of entrance roads would apparently remain the same.

Several people commented that there were already too many rental units in the county; there should be more owner-occupied units. In the proposed plans owner-occupied townhouses will be built along Breezewood Drive, behind Beltway Plaza at the southern edge of the development. It was mentioned unofficially that the developers were selling this part of the property to fund the major rental section.

The eight- to 10-year development schedule seems to show the southern and western perimeters being developed first – those areas for sale individually and those nearest the Metro station.

City Councilmember Rodney Roberts commented that he was not happy at all with the recreation plans or the lack thereof. He felt the city had traded increased density for ballfields and now the ballfields have been eliminated.

PRAB member Mary Geiger said it appears that the size of the recreation center has really been reduced to about the size of a club house. She also commented that the only ballfields seem to be those at the current Greenbelt Middle School.

possibility of a proliferation of additions and their size and impact, but that she will however support the staff recommendation. She cautioned GHI, “. . . that (they) be careful of what you ask for. You will have the final responsibility for how additions (may) impact the community and need to plan a management process to maintain the appearance of the community in terms of esthetics, parking, storm water control, green space and trees.” She also emphasized the need for citizens to get both county and city permits for additions.

In response to the mayor’s concerns, Roberts noted that he “hopes the mayor supports (the establishment of) the historic district.” Councilmember Leta Mach indicated she was “sensitive to the need for additions to keep GHI members here in Greenbelt. She has faith in the GHI membership and the cooperative model and believes that the GHI members and board will see that something unsightly is not built.”

While Councilmember Konrad Herling echoed the concerns of the mayor, he shared Mach’s faith in the ability of the GHI cooperative to meet the challenges that will fall on them. This sentiment was also echoed by Councilmember Edward Putens, as he expressed his faith in GHI and their Architecture and Environment Committee and asked, “Please, let’s move on.” The staff recommendation was then approved unanimously by council.

Fee Increases

Council also approved increases in fines for parking tickets and trash collection fees. These increases will go into effect beginning July 1. An increase in pool fees is also being discussed.

Parking Tickets

Fines for general parking tickets will increase from $25 to $40 on July 1. This increase will bring Greenbelt into line with surrounding jurisdictions. There will be no increase in fines for fire-lane or handicapped-space violations.

However, council indicated that the current fine for drivers of large or commercial vehicles that park on city streets during restricted hours was not large enough to deter these infractions. The restricted hours are 7 p.m. to 7 a.m. Monday through Saturday and all day Sunday. The fine for these parking violations is being increased to $100.

Refuse Collection

The new budget will also include increases in refuse fees.

The new fee will be $47 per quarter, an increase of $1.50. The fee for residents who receive refuse collection from another provider and receive recycling-only pick-up from the city will increase by $2 per year to $25.

Aquatic/Fitness Center

Council introduced a resolution to approve a five percent increase in the pass fees for the Greenbelt Aquatic and Fitness Center for next year. If passed, this increase will go into effect the day after Labor Day. The final vote on this increase will take place at the July 11 council meeting.

retail shops with residences above and an entrance to a parking structure. Further to the east would be “Texas-doughnut” style apartments. Kapistan said residential development would be turned over to another developer.

On the west side of the entrance boulevard would be the existing eight-theater complex, remodeled into eight stadium-style movie houses and possibly enlarged to 12 theaters. Facing Breezewood Drive behind the theaters would be a new restaurant facility.

The old six-theater complex and part of the mall would be demolished in order to extend the existing middle mall entrance road from Greenbelt Road all the way through to Breezewood Drive west of the eight-theater complex. The western section of the remaining mall, now anchored by the Giant Food store, would get a new parking structure hidden by mixed-use buildings containing first-floor retail and residential above. Similar buildings would hide the existing parking structure on the Greenbelt Road side of the mall.

No figures were given as to the amount of added retail and residential space the plan would provide.

Council Reaction

Council made little comment on this first view of the plan. Mayor Judith Davis asked why portions of the existing asphalt parking lots remained in the plan. Kapistan advised that long-term leases with major tenants prevented the mall owners from changing these lots.

Councilmember Rodney Roberts said he was “not thrilled with the plan.” He asked why the city needed more apartments. He noted that there would be no apparent dedication of open space.

Binbernagel said he was happy to see the Beltway Plaza representatives excited and engaged about working together with Springhill Lake to create an urbanist environment.

Concern was expressed over the future of movie houses, it being noted that movie attendance throughout the country was declining. Kapistan noted that the six-theater complex was closed in spite of having very good attendance. He thought the 12 theaters would work very well, although the owners were not wedded to that figure.

SHL Conditions

Hruby went through a 28 item list of conditions that the city wished to impose on the approval of the Springhill Lake conceptual site plan. Many were accepted by council without discussion.

A minimum requirement of 10 percent for sale units (with the rest being rental) as proposed by the SHL planners was opposed by Roberts as not being enough.

Davis said she agreed and would like to see 25 percent for sale units. Putens questioned if the requirement should be expressed in terms of percent of acreage instead of units, to which Councilmember Konrad Herling agreed.

Councilmember Leta Mach felt that a market study was needed to determine the right percentage. However, Davis felt that the housing market was volatile with everyone expecting the bubble to burst. She questioned the validity of any study. It was believed that the SHL owners already had one but that the city was not privy to it. Roberts felt the issue needed further attention.

Council agreed that SHL should be obligated to dedicate more land than the amount now in public ownership. Craze thought that only a small portion of the nine-acre city land upon which the present SHL Recreation Center is located would be taken for use in building the signature gateway towers on Cherrywood Lane and Springhill Lane and that the city could retain the remainder as open space.

The condition proposed by staff also seeks dedication of a 20,000 square foot recreation facility and three competition-sized ballfields plus private on-site recreation facilities. Land already held in public ownership is not to be used to satisfy mandatory dedication requirements.

Private Space

Besides public open space, council sought more private space. Roberts continued to express concern over providing more ball fields. His preferred location is in the northern part of the development. Herling thought there should be more playgrounds. The proximity of playgrounds to homes is an important feature of historic Greenbelt.

Binbernagel suggested creating more open space by adding another floor to the apartment buildings. APB member Brian Gibbons supported this concept, suggesting that one or more of the Texas-doughnut buildings could be eliminated by adding another story to the remaining buildings. Roberts proposed simply asking for a lower density.

Types of recreational facilities was another concern. Craze noted that the developers felt that basketball courts were not an amenity desired by tenants. Swimming pools and fitness facilities, on the other hand, were desired.

Craze said that the biggest challenge was to provide flexibility and opportunity to work with the various needs as they become apparent. Noting that the city was dealing with “world-class planners,” she felt the details should be left up to them.

Roberts responded that so far the “world-class planners” have not been interested in such amenities. “They suggest that the kids play in the street. We need to be more specific,” he said.

Another condition proposed was the appropriate use of low-impact development techniques. Binbernagel thought this could include things like “green” roofs (roofs with vegetation instead of asphalt or concrete) and more energy-efficient heating and air systems.

Putens wanted to add a condition on materials used on the building exteriors, advocating brick and stone. He said that a problem with the Kentlands development in Gaithersburg was its extensive use of vinyl siding. Davis felt that would increase building costs, but Putens disagreed.

Public Safety

Roberts felt that another condition needed to be added about public safety – how many officers are needed? Craze said that the test of public facilities was at the preliminary design stage. A fiscal impact study had been received just that day by staff, enabling it and council to see what the city’s needs and resources will be. Hruby agreed to add a public safety condition.

Replacing the city recreation center was another issue. Craze thought that the city would have leverage on this because AIMCO was seeking financing assistance from the city. Mach noted that the old middle school building was proposed for this purpose by the planners. “Is that an appropriate use for that facility?” she asked.

Hruby said staff was evaluating that question. Whether or not the Board of Education chose to retain the existing gym would be one issue. “AIMCO is proposing that,” she said, but this issue hasn’t yet been reviewed with the recreation staff. One benefit is that it is close to the school.

Davis commented that reusing the old school as a recreation center was one of several possibilities. “We are not wedded to any one solution,” she said.

Roberts said he did not approve of a recreation center being located on Board of Education property. “We’re looking for a recreation center, not a community center.” He thought that the old building should continue to be used by the school.

Next Step

Staff will take the comments made at the worksession and incorporate them into its list of conditions. Council will need to adopt the conditions as its recommendation to the Prince George’s Planning Board at council’s July 11 meeting, as the Planning Board is to consider approving the plan at its July 28 meeting. However, Hruby said that the county planning staff had much review work left to be done and might seek AIMCO’s consent for deferral of action to a later date.

Herling asked what the Planning Board might do. City Manager Michael McLaughlin responded that the Planning Board had approved the Greenbelt Station plan with many conditions and with a lot of issues unresolved. Davis noted that a planning board member “positive to municipalities” could be leaving the board.

Letter on Financing

Council briefly took note of a letter from Patti Shwayder, senior vice president for AIMCO, to Alfonso Cornish, deputy chief administrative officer for Prince George’s County, asking the county to create a tax increment financing (TIF) district to help finance construction of schools, community center and other public infrastructure related to the redevelopment proposal. On top of this financing AIMCO proposes to contribute $20 million. (This would be instead of paying county-required school impact fees.)

Council and staff took exception to a number of representations in the letter on the city’s position in the matter. Staff will prepare and send a letter to Cornish clarifying the city’s stance.

McLaughlin noted that AIMCO would also seek TIF financing from the city for the reconstruction of roads. He noted that the company intended to bring up to city standard and turn over to the city the now private roads in the development. (While all buildings are to be removed and replaced, the existing road system, for the most part, is proposed to be retained.)

not be able to turn right onto Kenilworth and must instead turn left onto the southbound lane of Kenilworth Avenue. Drivers wishing to reach Old Greenbelt should proceed from southbound Kenilworth to Greenbelt Road, turn left (eastbound) onto Greenbelt Road and turn left on Southway.

Concert Band

The Greenbelt Concert Band, headed by Director Tom Cherrix, will continue a decades-old Greenbelt Fourth of July tradition by performing a free concert at 7 p.m. at the bandstand near the lake waterfront prior to the fireworks display. According to Cherrix, the volunteer band composed of almost 45 members will be playing Tchaikovsky’s “1812 Overture,” “The Battle Hymn of the Republic,” “This is My Country,” John Sousa’s “The Stars and Stripes Forever” as well as a number of marches and movie themes.

The band, sponsored by the Greenbelt Department of Recreation, regularly practices Monday evenings at 7:30 p.m. in the Multipurpose Room of the Community Center. All Greenbelt residents are invited to join the band during weekly rehearsals.

Refreshments

The refreshments will be similar to last year, according to the Greenbelt Recreation Department. Vendors include the Babe Ruth Youth Baseball Organization and the Greenbelt Little League. A variety of food including hamburgers, hot dogs, chips and soda will be sold to raise money for their teams.

Legion Post #136

Food, music and activities will be presented by the Greenbelt American Legion Post #136 at 6900 Greenbelt Road from 1 to 5 p.m. on the legion lawn. The Legion welcomes all Greenbelt residents to attend; membership is not required. A DJ will provide music and there will also be activities for children. Indoor seating will be made available in case of extreme heat.

Children’s Activities

The Recreation Department will sponsor children’s art activities under an arts program tent at the park from 4 to 7 p.m., according to Arts Coordinator Nicole DeWald of the Recreation Department. Artists-in-residence Carol Wisdom and Loraine DiPietro will post a workshop in which children can make pinwheels with free materials provided (while supplies last). In addition, the Recreation Department will instruct children in games related to the overrunning theme of frogs, inspired by the ecology of Greenbelt Lake.

Frog sculptures, created by department-sponsored participants in the Creative Kids’ Camp Program, will be on display at Buddy Attick Park as well as a water snake created by participants from June’s Artful Afternoon program.

Police Support

The Greenbelt Police Department will have a tent to provide first aid and help with lost and missing children. The tent will be located in the grassy area beside the main parking lot. Alcohol is prohibited and violators will be subject to arrest. All pets must be on a leash. People carrying coolers and packages into the park should be prepared to have their contents inspected.

Inclement Weather

In case of inclement weather, the fireworks display will be postponed until 9 p.m. Tuesday evening. Other activities will be cancelled. For more information, call the Greenbelt Recreation Department Weather and Information Hotline at 301-474-5525.

4th of July Safety

With the Fourth of July holiday here, Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department reminds everyone to celebrate safely. Those planning on being outside for long periods on a hot day should remember to drink plenty of water. Pay careful attention when using barbeque grills and keep a close eye on children around pools and bodies of water.

All fireworks are illegal in Prince George’s County and this is strictly enforced. The county has an amnesty program that will provide free admission to Six Flags Amusement Park as a reward for turning in unused fireworks. Contact the program through the County’s Fire/Emergency Medical Services Department Operations Center at 301-583-2200 to schedule an appointment for pickup. This program runs through July 19.
